Re-envisioning Architecture in Columbus, Indiana with Spatial Agency and Design Innovation

Kevin Lair is an interdisciplinary designer whose work focuses on the integration of architecture, art, and entrepreneurship. In his position at the new IU Center for Art + Design (IUCA+D), he is fostering a comprehensive design education and developing design research through strategic prototypes. His mission is to promote design thinking, disciplinary re-structuring, and collaboration using Columbus as a living lab. His design practice is focusing on applications for building innovation capacity in the design of organizations, services, and new ventures.
